

DAY 6: WHO SHOULD COME TO MY BAPTISM?

One of the greatest parts about Baptism at church is that you have a unique opportunity to get family and friends into God's House. It's a sort of unspoken rule in our culture that when someone invites you to a significant event, like baptism, that you come to support them.

Take advantage of the chance you have to get your loved ones into church with you and spend the surrounding days and weeks praying that God begins to do a work in their heart. Pray that as you step out in faith to invite them to church that He would do His part in softening their heart and speaking to them.

It's OK if some of your family and friends don't understand your choices to follow Jesus and be baptized. As you keep taking steps in your walk with Jesus, those people in your life will see the changes God is making in you. One of the best ways to keep celebrating God's goodness is by sharing the story of how Jesus is changing you.

Don't be afraid to invite someone — step out in boldness and trust that God will do what only He can do!
